What do I need to know about Civil Rights Compliance?

All recipients of federal funds, regardless of the type of entity or the amount of money awarded, must provide assurance that they will not discriminate against any person on the grounds of race, color, national origin, disability, religion, sex, or age in any program or activity funded in whole or in part by federal financial assistance. The recipient must certify that it will comply with all applicable non-discrimination laws and regulations and must submit this assurance when accepting a DPS-VOCA Assistance award. Specifically, the statute that governs the U.S. Department of Justice (USDOJ) Office of Justice Programs (OJP) funded programs or activities, the Victims of Crime Act of 1984 (34 U.S.C. 20110(e)) prohibits such discrimination, as follows:

No person shall on the ground of race, color, religion, national origin, handicap, or sex be excluded from participation in, denied the benefits of, subjected to discrimination under, or denied employment in connection with, any undertaking funded in whole or in part with sums made available under this chapter.

All recipients of OJP funding must also comply with the USDOJ regulations on Partnerships with Faith-Based and Other Neighborhood Organizations, 28 C.F.R. pt. 38. These regulations prohibit organizations from using financial assistance from the USDOJ to fund inherently religious activities. While organizations can engage in non-funded inherently religious activities, they must be held separately from the USDOJ funded program, and customers or beneficiaries cannot be compelled to participate in them. The regulations also make clear that organizations participating in programs funded by the USDOJ are not permitted to discriminate in the provision of services on the basis of a beneficiary's religion.

The Assistant Attorney General of OJP has delegated the enforcement of civil rights compliance of all OJP grantees to the Director, Office for Civil Rights (OCR). The Director has civil rights enforcement responsibilities and determines through established policies and procedures whether any person is being excluded from participating in, denied the benefits of, subjected to discrimination under, or denied employment in connection with the program or activity receiving OJP funds on these grounds. Where such discriminatory actions are found through compliance reviews or complaint processing the recipient agency may be determined to be in noncompliance for violation of the law and of its signed assurances. If attempts to secure voluntary compliance through negotiations are not successful, the sanction of suspension or termination of funding is required by statute. Some specific forms of discrimination that are prohibited are set out in the OJP program statute's implementing regulations 28 CFR 42.203. For more information consult the OCR web site at <https://www.ojp.gov/program/civil-rights-office/home>.
